About

I am a versatile, results-driven Digital Skills Trainer and Web Developer specializing in educational technology, program facilitation, and multidisciplinary mentorship. Currently serving as a Trainer at Mobile Leap (Learning Lions), I manage end-to-end curriculum delivery by designing high-impact, learner-centered sessions, tracking participant progress, and evaluating performance. My background allows me to confidently mentor students across both technical tracks, such as web development, and creative digital disciplines, ensuring a holistic approach to skill acquisition.

By seamlessly blending a solid technical foundation with modern instructional methodologies, I excel at breaking down complex concepts into structured, practical, and highly accessible learning experiences. I thrive in project-based environments, guiding trainees from fundamental concepts to real-world application. Whether working independently or collaborating within multidisciplinary teams, I am deeply committed to leveraging technology and interactive delivery to empower learners and scale impactful educational programs.
